

Tread of Pioneers Museum quilt collection

1. Lemon star-clamshell patchwork applique quilt. The cotton quilt was donated by Mrs. Clay Shaw. The quilt had belonged to Ellis Clark, her father, and was pieced by his mother. The family brought the quilt from Missouri to Steamboat Springs about 1880.

2. Diagonal set 9-patch quilt, 1890s. Given to the museum from Mrs. Claude Luekens, the quilt was made by her grandmother, Mrs. Remington. The Remington family introduced the "Remington" strawberry for which Strawberry Park is now known.

3. Colorful patchwork quilt, 1834. Donated by the DeVault family.

4. Yellow and white friendship quilt, made by homesteaders of Dunckley, Colorado. The quilt was given to Clara & Albert Coons when they left the area around 1927. Each of the squares is signed by the woman who made the square. Names on the squares (as best as can be read)
